Housing Justice Program - Maryland

Host Organization Request for Proposal

RFP No. HJP-20A08

Solicitation Release Date: May 3, 2022
Application Deadline: May 27, 2022

OVERVIEW

Equal Justice Works invites eligible organizations to submit proposals to participate as Host Organizations in Equal Justice Works' 2022 Housing Justice Program in Maryland. The Housing Justice Program creates Fellowships for qualified attorneys and community organizers to provide free civil legal assistance, conduct community outreach and education, and advocate for improved tenants' protections. The main goal of this program is to disrupt the cycle of evictions and housing instability for low-income tenants by mobilizing lawyers and organizers (Fellows) to catalyze systemic change, including access to counsel for tenants facing eviction. In jurisdictions with a right to counsel for tenants facing eviction, Fellows help to pilot implementation designs and issues prior to the jurisdiction providing full government funding. Host Organizations will participate in the Housing Justice Program by hosting one or more Fellows; organizations may apply to host attorney Fellows, organizer Fellows, or a combination of both. Host Organizations are encouraged to coordinate approaches during the RFP stage and implementation of the program.

The 2022 Housing Justice Program will expand the efforts of the 2019 Housing Justice Program from Virginia to Maryland to help low-income households avoid eviction and remain stably housed.

Equal Justice Works seeks to allocate approximately fourteen Fellows in Maryland: ten attorney Fellows and four community organizer Fellows hosted at legal services organizations and community-based organizations beginning on or about August 1, 2022, and ending no later than 24 months after the Fellow's start date and no later than August 31, 2024. These fourteen Fellows will work cooperatively to:

- 1) Provide direct legal assistance including advice, referrals, and full representation to promote housing stability for low-income households, especially tenants in eviction proceedings;
- 2) Build collaborative partnerships with community organizations and provide referrals for wraparound services;
- 3) Engage in outreach including know-your-rights presentations and workshops, legal clinics, and intake events around housing issues; and
- 4) Identify patterns, organize tenants, engage in impact litigation to challenge structural issues, and educate key stakeholders around the causes and consequences of housing instability.
- 5) Where there is a right to counsel, identify any on-the-ground implementation problems and coordinate with other legal services providers.

Equal Justice Works, as the nation's largest facilitator of opportunities in public interest law, will support the Fellows and collaborate with the Host Organizations throughout the implementation of the program.

1. PROGRAM INFORMATION

A. Need

Housing is a fundamental human right, determining access to quality food, education, employment, mental and physical health, and more; but it is not a right that is easily secured and one that is often too easily lost. The loss of a home through eviction destabilizes families: creating homelessness, disrupting children’s education, and causing or exacerbating chronic health issues. According to Matthew Desmond, Princeton University Professor and Principal Investigator of the Eviction Lab, there is also a direct causative link between eviction and poverty: “Eviction is a cause, not just a consequence of poverty” (Desmond 2016). Legal assistance is key to low-income tenants in eviction cases, yet access to such assistance is severely limited. While defendants in criminal cases have a right to a lawyer, defendants in civil cases who cannot afford one generally have no right to counsel.

The National Equity Atlas identified that approximately 111,000 Maryland households are behind on rent and approximately 79 percent are people of color based on the most recent available data. Further, once a household has been evicted, the struggle to find new housing snowballs, as landlords and property managers frequently screen for past evictions when determining whether to accept new tenants. The report published by Stout Risius Ross estimated that, with a right to counsel in housing court, 92 percent of represented tenants would avoid disruptive displacement in Baltimore City (The Impact of an Eviction Right to Counsel in Baltimore City, May 2020). Buoyed by the findings of the Stout report, Baltimore City Council unanimously passed Council Bill 20-0625 in December of 2020, enacting a civil right to counsel for tenants facing eviction, making it the seventh city to provide tenants with access to attorneys. In 2021, Maryland became the second state to enact access to counsel for low-income tenants by passing HB 18. However, companion legislation to fund right to counsel through a higher surcharge on District Court filings died in the House of Delegates, leaving the promise of right to counsel without a permanent funding source. In 2022, $11.8 million of state funds were designated for the Access to Counsel in Evictions program for FY23, and the Maryland General Assembly passed legislation allocating $14 million in funding for FY24.

The Maryland Access to Counsel in Evictions Taskforce (Eviction Task Force) recently published their report and noted that “[o]ther jurisdictions have built a staffing pipeline by establishing fellowship programs in partnership with organizations such as Equal Justice Works” (ATC Task Force Report, January 2022). The Eviction Task Force recommends that focusing on outreach and education in partnership with trusted members of the community, building a pipeline of lawyers and paralegals, and conducting a comprehensive evaluation of the program are some of the critical elements necessary to build an effective Access to Counsel Eviction Program in Maryland (ATC Task Force Report, January 2022).

Beyond helping individuals in moments of crisis, legal intervention is also critical to disrupt the detrimental cycles that evictions trigger in communities. In addition to attorneys, community organizers play an important role in connecting community members with legal services, building partnerships between legal service organizations and community partners, and sharing valuable resources and information with community members. Housing organizers help build trust in the community and mobilize the community to support systemic change.

To confront the crisis of eviction, Equal Justice Works created the Housing Justice Program to provide immediate legal assistance to those experiencing housing instability, and advance long-term, systemic reforms to address the underlying inequities.

B. Program Scope

In 2018, with a three-year grant from The JPB Foundation, Equal Justice Works launched the first cohort of the Housing Justice Program, which mobilized lawyers and organizers (“Fellows”) at Host Organizations in the Greater Richmond Region of Virginia to provide legal services, education, and community organizing to help people in low-income communities fight evictions and champion for systems change. In two years of operation (2019-2021), Fellows successfully moved the needle on housing stability by preventing more than 4,000 tenants from being evicted and conducting education and outreach efforts for more than 40,000 people. Most critically, the legal services organizations hosting our Fellows confirmed that the Housing Justice Program helped generate momentum for tenants to have the right to be represented by counsel in eviction cases - something that seemed inconceivable in Richmond just two years earlier.

The 2022 Housing Justice Program will mobilize approximately 30 Fellows in Virginia, South Carolina, and Maryland. At least fourteen of these Fellows - ten lawyers and four organizers - will be placed at eligible Host Organizations in Maryland for 24 months. Equal Justice Works, Host Organizations, Fellows, and other partners will cooperate and identify ways to collaboratively advance the program.

Host Organizations will receive subawards from Equal Justice Works that include Fellows’ salary and fringe, and Host Organization support costs. Fellows will receive, from Equal Justice Works and its partners, customized legal and professional development trainings and other specialized resources designed to support their Fellowship activities.

C. Fellows

Equal Justice Works’ 2022 Housing Justice Program will support ten Attorney Fellows and four Organizer Fellows in Maryland starting on or about August 1, 2022, and ending no later than 24 months from the Fellow’s start date, and no later than August 31, 2024. Fellows will work as full-time employees of their Host Organizations and receive the salary and benefits determined by the Host Organization in accordance with its policies and pay scale.

Host Organizations are responsible for recruiting and competitively selecting qualified Fellows. Fellow candidates will apply directly to Host Organizations of their interest. Equal Justice Works will support the recruitment by providing a sample job descriptions template (Appendix 6) and marketing the opportunities nationwide through its networks.

Attorney Fellows: Host Organizations may propose to host up to three attorney Fellows. Attorney Fellows must be licensed and admitted to practice or awaiting bar exam results in the applicable jurisdiction. Organizations proposing to host one or more attorney Fellows must have a managing attorney as a designated supervisor of the Fellow(s).

Organizer Fellows: Host Organizations may propose to host up to two organizer Fellows each.

Please see the “Scope of Work” section below for all the activities and responsibilities associated with the fellowship.

D. Host Organizations

A successful Fellowship project requires dedicated support from the Host Organization and a supervisor with adequate subject matter expertise committed to the success of the Fellow and the project. Host Organizations must prove how promoting housing stability for low-income households is an integral part of their organization and how the Fellow(s) will contribute to the organization's capacity. Host Organizations must also demonstrate their capacity to provide adequate supervision, mentoring, and training for the Fellows. Adequate supervision would involve regular in-person and virtual meetings with the Fellow, and ongoing oversight and support for legal cases as well as outreach and education activities. Supervisors are expected to participate in a limited number of calls with Equal Justice Works and training events to build an integrated support system for Fellows and ensure an effective information flow.

Host Organizations and Fellows must work in collaboration with each other and Equal Justice Works to coordinate efforts to provide direct services, strategic partnership and coalition building, outreach and education, and to reduce systemic barriers to housing stability.

During the Fellowship period, Equal Justice Works will monitor the Host Organizations' capacities and Fellows' activities to fulfill its subrecipient monitoring responsibilities and to provide technical assistance as needed. At the start of the program, Equal Justice Works will host a virtual orientation for selected Host Organizations and their designated key personnel, which will cover programmatic, financial, and administrative requirements for this program.

E. Scope of Work

Housing Justice Program Fellows will engage in a range of core services based on the needs of the communities to be served and Host Organizations' capabilities and/or restrictions. Fellows at the same Host Organizations may focus on the same or complimentary core services. Fellows must engage in one or more of the following activities:

- 1) Direct Legal Services: Fellows provide direct legal assistance including advice, referrals, and full representation for tenants in eviction proceedings and on other housing-related matters. Fellows may provide holistic legal services promoting long term housing stability for low-income households. Fellows may also recruit and educate pro bono attorneys to volunteer in day-of-court programs.
- 2) Resident Services: Fellows build collaborative partnerships with community organizations to provide referrals for wraparound services for low-income households. Fellows will also provide referrals to their peers in the Cohort as they identify individuals with emergency housing needs.
- 3) Outreach and Education: Fellows engage in a wide variety of outreach and education activities including, but not limited to: conducting "know your rights" education for tenants; engaging tenants in Town Halls for a more intensive look into renter problems and desired solutions; door knocking in high-eviction communities; and providing community legal education to both tenant and landlord groups (virtually and in-person).
- 4) Community Organizing: Fellows will identify patterns, organize tenants, develop leaders, engage in impact litigation and education to challenge structural issues, and execute campaign strategies to build tenant power and win policy changes that advance tenant protections. Where there is a right to counsel, Fellows will work to identify any on-the-ground implementation problems and coordinate with other Fellows and service providers.

Each Fellow’s project plan should be responsive to their organizational circumstances and community needs. All Fellows are required to work cooperatively to advance the goals of the Housing Justice Program, to the extent permitted by organizational and funder policies and restrictions.¹

As subrecipients of Equal Justice Works, Host Organizations have the primary responsibility to ensure that the Fellows employed at their organizations perform the applicable activities under adequate supervision, participate in the training and technical assistance programs, and fulfill the data collection and reporting requirements using the key performance indicators below.
